Guidance on our research principles

Your statement should set out your commitment to our key principles for ageing-related research. The bullet-points below outline our key principles to help guide you:

- Capacity building, mentoring and research culture

You should describe and evidence your commitment / contribution to capacity building and/or mentoring in ageing-related research, and how you have meaningfully contributed to building a positive research culture.

Please try to provide specific examples of your contribution and explain what difference this has made (e.g. on other researchers, the field and/or more widely).

- Patient, carer and/or Public Involvement and Engagement (PPIE)

For this aspect, you may wish to refer to the UK Standards for Public Involvement, a framework for what good public involvement in research looks like.

Please try to provide specific examples of how you have meaningfully promoted PPIE in ageing-related research, explaining the difference this has made (e.g. to your research or that of other researchers, the field and/or more widely).

- Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI)

The principles of EDI can include issues related to the characteristics that the Equality Act 2010 protects, as well other characteristics such as socio-economic status, geographical location etc.

Please try to provide specific examples of how you have meaningfully promoted EDI in ageing-related research, explaining the difference this has made (e.g. to your research or that of other researchers, the field and/or more widely).

Supporter letter

Please upload a statement from a supporter for your nomination, in the following format:

- A letter addressed to the Trust's Grants Team, the main body of which should be no more than 500 words. Your supporter may include hyperlinks to examples of your work if they wish.
- Is either a Word document or PDF.

Your supporter's statement should briefly explain any connection they have with you (e.g. any current or prior work you have done together etc.) and why they are supporting you.
